Welcome to Maryland

Maryland is the home of Olympic Gold Medalist Vicky Bullett, the reigning Atlantic Coast Conference Women's Basketball Champions, and waterways that serve as the perfect backdrop for a red, white and blue celebration of Terrapin success. Bullett's teammates surround her with patriotic streamers on a hill overlooking the Severn River as it passes through Annapolis on the way to the Chesapeake Bay. On the skyline is the State Capital Building, nestled in the heart of one of the nation's best preserved historic towns and near to the home of the Terps, College Park.

The photo saluting the defending ACC Tournament victors and Co-ACC season champions on the inside front cover was, like the cover photo, taken at Manresa-on-Severn, a mansion almost as beautiful as the view it affords. Now home for those who want to retreat briefly from the world for solitude, Manresa-on-Severn's quiet was broken for an afternoon to mark Bullett's and Maryland's achievements.

As the world watched in Seoul, Bullett mirrored the entire U.S. team as her improving individual play matched that of a team that got better and better under Olympic Coach Kay Yow, another representative of the ACC. Terrapin Coach Chris Weller, too, has been afforded the privilege of National Team assignments twice, and guard Deanna Tate was a National Team member this summer at the Jones Cup competition.

Cole Field House, which already has 13 banners hanging from its rafters signifying previous Terrapin achievement, has some special nights ahead during the 1988-1989 season to commemorate a year of success.

Before Your Visit

Contact the sports information office for press credentials. Heather Lewis is in charge of game press passes; she requests that you call at least three days before an event. Heather will screen requests to insure a working press box which is situated courtside at Cole. If you want to take pictures, make your request on letterhead at least a week before the game.

Interviews with student-athletes must be ordered through Sports Information (Heather Lewis, Herb Hartnett). They need 24 hours advance notice to arrange an interview, which is best accomplished before or after practice. Although telephone numbers of student-athletes will not be published by Sports Information, interviews can be conducted by telephone upon request. All interviews are to be arranged through the Sports Information Office.

Coach Chris Weller can be contacted through the Sports Information Office for interviews and she is available before or after practices which are open.

Terrapin Game Day

Working press and photo credentials will be mailed by Heather or Dee Stough when possible. Credentials that can't be mailed are available at the rear entrance of Cole Field House, opposite Byrd Stadium.

Cole press row is located on the floor for women's games; radio stations are seated courtside. Photographers before the game may pick-up arm bands on press row from Heather Lewis. A photo pass without an arm band will not allow access to the Cole floor. Photo boxes are marked at each end of the basketball floor; photographers are prohibited from shooting in areas outside the boxes.

Acting President

Dr. William E. Kirwan

A mathematician of international repute with 24 years of service to the University of Maryland, College Park, Dr. Kirwan is in his second stint as acting chief executive officer. He has been Professor of Mathematics (1972 to the present), Chairman of the Department (1977 to 1981), Vice Chancellor and now Vice President for Academic Affairs (1981 to the present), and Provost (1986 to the present). In 1982 he directed the school as Acting Chancellor for four months; he has directed the campus since July 1 as Acting President. His only separations from Maryland since his arrival in 1964 as Assistant Professor were to act as visiting lecturer at the University of London (1966-67), and to serve as Program Director of the National Science Foundation (1975-76).

Dr. Kirwan served as an assistant instructor at Rutgers while earning his master's (1962) and Ph.D. (1964) degrees. He was appointed an assistant professor at Maryland in 1964 and he has been here since. A native of Kentucky, he earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Kentucky in 1960 and was awarded Phi Beta Kappa honors. He went to Kentucky on a football scholarship, and his father also coached there.

His service to the University includes chairing committees on Promotion & Tenure, Academic Planning, and University Priorities.

Director of Athletics

Lew Perkins

An educator and administrator who has gained national bearing in intercollegiate athletics, Perkins earned his way to Maryland by building one athletic department from its beginning (South Carolina at Aiken, 1969-80), infusing a traditional program with record-setting growth (Pennsylvania, 1980-83), and rebuilding the fortunes of Wichita State (1983-87). His arrival at Maryland in the spring of 1987 signalled a renewed drive on the University's part to achieve equilibrium between quality academics and athletics. Since then Perkins has restructured the department's staffing, putting top priority on academics with the creation of a distinguished Academic Support Unit. Football will benefit from an ambitious development drive that unites almost $3 million in state funds with University contributions to upgrade Maryland facilities. Sports once labelled "non-revenue" are now Varsity Sports. An NCAA field hockey championship was won in his first autumn, women's basketball won the ACC Championship and advanced to the Final Eight, and men's basketball surprised by advancing to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

A native of Massachusetts, Perkins played baskebtall for some of Iowa's most powerful teams (1965-67), earning his undergraduate degree in 1967. He went to USC-Aiken two years later as Head Basketball Coach and Director of Athletics, achieving success in both areas. His appointment at Pennsylvania as Associate Director was marked by helping to build the most successful Ivy League football program of the past decade from a base of two wins in three years.

His challenge at Wichita State was to unite the athletic department with the University and community, and with its athletic peers in the NCAA. His rewards included being cited by the Arizona Republic as one of the nation's best athletic directors, and in an unprecented move, Wichita State was cited by the NCAA for running an exemplary program.

Perkins, 43, is married to the former Gwen Flaum. Like Lew, she earned both an undergraduate degree from Iowa and a master's in education from the University of South Carolina. They have two daughters, Amy, 17, and Holly, 15.

The Maryland Women's Basketball Press Guide was written by Heather Lewis with help from Herb Hartnett. Editing by the Sports Information staff (Ivan Meltzer, Chuck Walsh). Photographs are by Larry Crouse and Cindy Grim of the University's Photo Services, and by Brian Lewis. The cover photos are by Ed Mahan, and were taken at Manresa-on-Severn in Annapolis with permission of Joseph Currie, S.J.; Manresa's public relations director is Diane Nicholson. The book was accomplished with the considerable help of Charlie Guillette of Colonial Lithograph, who not only printed the book but designed the graphics format. The University's Paula Mandelman was also of considerable help in printing the book.

The University

Chartered in 1856, The University of Maryland College Park has grown far beyond its founders' vision as a college for planters' sons. Today, the University has emerged as a leading force in American higher education. With more than 110 majors for undergraduates to choose from, College Park offers one of the most comprehensive course selections available. At the cutting edge of science and technology, the campus is also firmly grounded in the humanities and liberal and performing arts. Moreover, Maryland is one of a small group of academic institutions that consistently dominates when judged by the most influential rating groups, including Phi Beta Kappa, the American Council on Education, the National Academy of Science, and the Association of American Universities. All rank Maryland as one of the nation's premier public universities.

The Campus

College Park's cosmopolitan setting attracts students from every state and more than 100 countries. They bring varied ideas, carry contrasting values, follow different lifestyles, and pursue different goals. The campus itself numbers 1,539 acres and contains more than 200 major buildings. Among them: a Computer Science Center that has become a model for universities nationwide, and a campus library system stocked with 3 million volumes and microfilm units. Housing options include traditional and modern dorms and numerous Greek sororities and fraternities. The courtyards and groves that dot the campus are ideal spots for study or relaxation.

The Faculty

The reputation of any major university is based on the caliber of its faculty. College Park faculty are leaders in their fields, as confirmed by the impressive number of Pulitzer Prizes, Guggenheim Fellowships and National Medals of Science awarded to them. Faculty here have pioneered the use of lasers in the operating room, written the definitive biographies of William Shakespeare and black educator Booker T. Washington, and founded a campus chorus that is internationally acclaimed. Undergraduates can work directly with these experts - from their very first term at College Park to their last. The student to teacher ratio is approximately 16 to 1 - as low as that at many small colleges. College Park professors will challenge you to think, to question assumptions and assertions, to explore and to discover.

The Students

Maryland students are a diverse group of motivated men and women. And the time they spend outside the classroom is critical to their success. Campus life at College Park means an award-winning student newspaper and FM radio station, championship athletic teams and intramural sports programs, Phi Beta Kappa and professional societies, and a University Theatre hailed by The Washington Post as one of the best in the metropolitan area.

The Locale

Nine miles from the nation's capital, College Park sits at the doorstep of some of the country's most important landmarks and institutions - from the United States Senate and the Smithsonian to the Library of Congress and the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. College Park is only a short drive from Baltimore - a great historical city and center of commerce, famed for its arts and architecture, new National Aquarium and colorful Inner Harbor. College Park's relationship with these two exceptional cities is not just one of proximity. Undergraduates receive hands-on experience at some of our most prominent agencies and governmental institutions - including NASA, the National Archives, and Congress itself. Because of its unique location College Park is also able to draw upon Nobel Prize winners, cabinet members, and internationally renowned scientists, artists, and writers who come to the campus to share their knowledge.

Cole Field House

Cole Field House is the crossroads of athletics on the College Park campus. It is where cheers reach the loudest during a student's stay, and where memories abound. It houses the athletic administrative offices, classrooms for a variety of courses, and students study in its stands at any hour. It hosts joggers on its corridor, which surrounds the top of the stands, and sightseers looking at the trophies of decades of Maryland sports success.

The University graduates its students from Cole, and welcomes a lot of them back for basketball. Several sports call Cole home, but when winter starts, it is the state's college basketball palace.

Basketball at Cole has meant success. Hanging along the entire east side of the building's rafters are banners signifying the success of Maryland's women. Seven proclaim ACC championships won in 1978, 1979, 1981, 1982, 1983, 1986 and 1988. Seven more celebrate Terrapin national rankings that include a second place finish in 1978 and a number three ranking in 1982.

The only college gymnasium in the Northeast to seat as many as 12,000 when it was opened on Dec. 2, 1955, Cole has since hosted 33 NCAA men's games, including two Final Fours (1966 and 1970). Maryland's women had their first NCAA game there March 14, 1982 when they defeated Stanford, 82-48, in a NCAA first round contest. The following year they hosted Central Michigan, again in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, and defeated C.M.U., 94-71. Last March they hosted St. Joseph's on the way to making the Mideast Regional finals.

Cole was dedicated as the Student Activities Center, a $3.3 million project that was erected under the tutelage of Board of Regents Chair, Judge William P. Cole, Jr., and President Wilson Elkins. A year after the dedication, the building was named in honor of Cole, who served the Board of Regents for 25 years.

Although Cole has remained the same basketball hall it was built to be, there have been refinements. Scoreboards were installed during the off-season that will not only tell the fan what the score is, but also how loud they are cheering. Cole's seating also grew from its original base, and 14,500 can now root for the Red and White at any game.

Terp Traditions

Testudo, a Diamondback Turtle whose name is derived from the scientific classification for turtle (testudines), is the mascot of the University of Maryland. Testudo's flight to become official mascot was (there is no other description) slow. But once on top, Testudo has reigned with a bronze-like grip, peering at generations of younger Terps crossing in front of, or entering, the Theodore R. McKeldin Library in the heart of the College Park campus. The 500 pound terrapin's days of roving to conquer rival campuses at the behest of the College Park student body are over, his undisturbed regal bearing insured by his being bolted to a concrete throne.

The need for a mascot was essential in the early 1920s in a world littered with Wildcats, Tigers, Devils, Wolves, Bears, and all sorts of traditional names derived from a half-century of college athletics. Maryland was consolidated from different state schools in 1920 to form the base of today's wide-ranging state system and it needed a flag-carrier to do battle with Wahoos, Lions, and Generals.

Dr. H.C. Byrd, the University President in 1922, recommended the Diamondback as mascot in response to the student newspaper's search for an "official" leader. Although his suggestion was, indeed, "official," there were some who resisted, opting for the older and historically entrenched term, Old-Liners. A label derived from the Revolutionary War when Maryland soldiers earned the accolade for bravery and perseverence in the face of British troops, Old-Liners had a more vocal lobby than the speechless turtle.

Testudo

By 1935, however, the Yearbook had changed its name from Reveille to Terrapin by a vote of the student body, and save for some splintered resistance, Testudo's family had won. Newspapers, even then exploring every angle, shortened Terrapin to Terp, but Testudo by any name is still a turtle.

Samuel P. Gorham of Providence, R.I., cast Testudo in bronze at the request of the Class of 1933. He was modeled after a feisty Diamondback that came from Dr. Byrd's hometown of Crisfield. Dr. Byrd's choice of mascot was not intended to reflect the docility of Maryland teams. As a small boy near his home he surely found out what so many others have discovered about Terrapins — they bite.

Colors

The colors of the University of Maryland are those of the state flag—gold, red, black and white.

Maryland's flag bears the arms of the Calvert and Crossland families. Calvert was the family name of the Lords Baltimore who founded Maryland, and their colors of gold and black appear in the first and fourth quarters of the flag. Crossland was the family of the mother of George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore. The red and white Crossland colors, with a Greek cross terminating in the foils, appear in the second and third quarters. The flag was first flown in its present form October 25, 1888, at Gettysburg Battlefield for ceremonies dedicating monuments to Maryland regiments of the Army of the Potomac. It was offically adopted in 1904. Maryland law requires that if any ornament is affixed to the top of a flagstaff carrying the Maryland flag, the ornament must be a gold cross bottony.

Like the long trek of Testudo to become mascot, the trip for these colors to arrive as "official" was marked by factionalism. By the post World War II years, there was disgruntlement from the press and others that Maryland's fooball uniforms were difficult to read, and Old Gold and Black were deemed the colors, even though red had been an official color. By the time of Coach Jim Tatum's matchless era of success, which included a National Championship in 1953, the football team was back in red. Today's Maryland football teams incorporate all the colors of the state flag, although the predominate University of Maryland "fight" color is red.

There was the seventh 20-plus win season — a victory over Penn State in late February saw to that. Then March saw an unprecendented seventh Atlantic Coast Conference Championship and a rise through the NCAA Tournament, culminating in the national quarterfinals. August brought Maryland its most recent United States Olympian and September saw her bring home the Games' most treasured medal to her teammates and fans.

The past calendar year has truly been golden for the University of Maryland Lady Terrapins ... and the coming year promises to be as well.

Four regulars, including three starters, return this season — a year which the polls indicate should be quite rewarding for the Lady Terps. Maryland, which finished last year ranked No. 9 — its seventh time to finish in the national Top 10 — has graced all the preseason rankings. The Terps are ranked ninth in Dick Vitale's Basketball Yearbook, 10th by the Women's Basketball News Service, and 12th by Street & Smith's. Given Maryland's returnees, its richly talented and tall recruiting class and its previous tournament experience, those poll predictions may be understated.

Certainly the Terps' extraordinary experiences of a year ago allows for preseason optimism. It is not often that a team lacking height and experience winds up in the NCAA Final Eight. Using a four guard lineup at times last season, the Lady Terps were able to advance to the NCAA Mideast Regional Final, before bowing to eventual NCAA Runner-up, Auburn. The Terps' 26-6 record and No. 9 national ranking were the best since 1982-83 when the Lady Terps finished 26-5 and sixth in the country.

Leading the way for the Terrapins will be Vicky Bullett, the team's triumphant Olympian and a 1988-89 Street & Smith's preseason All-America. In the Summer Olympics, the 6-3 forward averaged 4.4 points and 3.0 rebounds in five games. She was the only American to shoot 100 percemt from the free throw line, connecting on eight of eight attempts. A reserve forward, she still was third on the team in rebounds, grabbing 15. Those numbers are all the more pronounced when considering Bullett was the youngest member of the team and one of only two Olympians with college eligibility remaining.

As a junior last season, Bullet collected first team All-ACC, Kodak Regional All-America and NCAA Mideast Region All-Tournament Team honors. She was the team's leading scorer and rebounder, averaging 18.2 and 9.5, respectively. Despite having defenses key on her all year and averaging 32 minutes a game, she was the lone Terrapin not to foul out of a single contest.

Entering her final season, Bullett, a native of Martinsburg, WVa., is on track to become Maryland's all-time leading scorer and rebounder.

Joining Bullett in international play this past summer was senior guard, Deanna Tate. Tate, who hails from Gastonia, N.C., was a member of the national team that won the silver medal in the Jones Cup Tournament in Taiwan. In 1988, she was named MVP of the ACC Tournament for the second time in her career, the first coming in 1986. Tate was the fourth leading scorer last year, averaging 12.9 points a game and led the team in assists (5.5 per game) and steals (2.8 per).

The third returning starter is junior center Christy Winters. The 6-3 Reston, Va. native was named to the 1988 ACC All-Tournament Team along with Tate. She was the team's third leading scorer and second leading rebounder a year ago, averaging 14.0 points and 5.5 boards.

Expected to join the returning starters is sophomore guard, Carla Holmes. The ACC's Rookie of the Year last season will team with Tate in the backcourt to form one of the conference's most feared tandems. Holmes' ability to shoot consistently from three-point range will complement Tate's penetrating style. Look for both of them to push the ball up the court and force the up-tempo game.

Weller is faced with the challenge of replacing two standout guards in Lisa Brown and Edna Campbell. Brown, a first team All-ACC performer and NCAA Mideast Region All-Tournament Team selection, was the team's calming influence on the court. She averaged 16.5 points and 4.6 assists per game last season, but more importantly set the tone for the squad.

Kaisa Maine

Christy Winters

While it is doubtful one of Maryland's three talented freshmen will fill Brown's psychological role, the trio certainly will battle for her minutes.

Weller was able to land the metropolitan areas top two players: Baltimore Player of the Year Dwuanna Lee and Washington D.C. Player of the Year Corinne Carson. Both could vie for playing time immediately. Sue Panek, an All-State selection out of Bishop Carroll High School in Ebensburg, Pa. also will vie for that fifth spot.

Lee, as a senior at Walbrook High School, averaged 21.6 points, 10.5 rebounds and 4.0 assists per game. She was a first team All-Met selection as a junior and senior and a second team member as a sophomore. Carson, an All-Met performer as a senior, averaged 23.9 points and 13. 4 rebounds while attending Calvin Coolidge High School.

Panek, honored as Player of the Year in 1988 by the Altoona Mirror and Mainline Newspaper, averaged 25.5 points, 11.2 rebounds, and 4.1 assists as a senior. All three are capable outside shooters, quick on the break and are not afraid to go inside and mix it up under the boards.

Adding depth and experience to this year's squad will be Kaisa Maine and Subrena Rivers at forward, Mary Barnes in the backcourt, and freshman Suellen Vickers at post. Maine, a 6-1 senior forward from Finland combines finesse and power in the frontcourt. In 20 games last season, she averaged 1.7 points and 1.2 rebounds. Rivers is back after sitting out last season to concentrate on academics. She averaged a respectable 2.9 points and 4.8 rebounds a game as a sophomore. At 5-10, the Jamaica, New York native has the the size and aggressiveness to go inside and battle on the boards and the ball handling abilities to play guard. Her return this season — and the defensive presence and rebounding skills she brings to the team — should allow Maryland to turn it up a notch on the break. Barnes, injured most of last season, adds depth to the backcourt, while Vickers will provide relief for Winters at the post position.

Subrena Rivers

Deanna Tate

Weller says she is excited about the 1988-89 season and has high expectations for her team's success. The goal, she says, is to take the team that next step — the Final Four. And why not? All the ingredients seem to be there for a championship-caliber team — four regulars returning with a more confident attitude and big game experience and four talented and eager newcomers, all tipping the scales at 5-10 or taller.

Besides the always tough ACC competition, Maryland will face one, and possibly two, 1988 Final Four teams on what is considered one of the nation's toughest schedules. The Terps open Thanksgiving weekend in Auburn, Ala. at the Dial Basketball Classic. A possible rematch against the Auburn Lady Tigers, last year's NCAA Runner-up, may loom there. Over the Christmas break, the Lady Terps travel to southern California to face 1988 semifinalist Long Beach State and highly-regarded Southern California. The schedule includes five teams ranked in last year's final Top 20 Associated Press Poll and nine teams who participated in the 1988 NCAA Tournament. Weller believes the schedule is the most difficult one Maryland has faced. "If we can win on this schedule," she says simply, "we'll be ready for a strong post-season bid."

If the Lady Terps are to surpass last year's successes, they once again will rely on stifling defense and exceptional quickness, both which make the team's historically-strong fast break game click. That quickness and defensive prowess still is there. Now, there is added height and depth.

The future indeed looks golden.

Her overall record is 263-112 and her ACC record stands at 99-46.

Coach Weller has the distinction of coaching 20 international players, ranging from Athletes in Action to Olympic Team members, two All-Americans, and sixteen All-ACC Tournament players. In addition to basketball, Weller was on the swim team for two years and played on the school's first women's lacrosse squad. Following graduation, she taught Physical Education for seven years at nearby John F. Kennedy High School in Silver Spring, Md. As a teacher, she coached basketball, track, tennis, and lacrosse.

In 1975 she took over the varsity program and in 1976 was appointed Assistant Athletic Director for Women's Sports, a position she held until 1980. During those four years, Coach Weller helped build one of the finest women's athletic programs in the nation.

The University of Maryland's commitment to academic support and graduation of the student-athlete is unparalleled in collegiate athletics. This commitment is represented by the recent formation of the Academic Support Unit.

Directed by Dr. Gerald Gurney, the Academic Support Unit is an intensive program of assessment, skill development and counseling that is offered to every University of Maryland student-athlete. The Academic Support Unit serves the student-athlete with individualized study and tutorial services, career development programs, study skills and both academic and psychological counseling. The Unit takes a strong, no-nonsense approach to academic development, which directly reflects the personal commitment and combined experience of its staff.

Dr. Gurney joined the Maryland staff in 1987, after tenures at Southern Methodist University and Iowa State, institutions which under Gurney's direction were lauded for their nationally-recognized academic support programs. Dr. Gurney earned his Ph.D. in higher education administration from Iowa State in 1980. He received a master's degree in counseling and student personnel work and a bachelor of science in English education, both from Ohio State University.

The staff which Dr. Gurney has assembled for the Academic Support Unit boasts equally impressive credentials.

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston coordinates the developmental services arm of the Unit, organizing the student-athlete orientation, drug education and career programs. A licensed clinical psychologist, Dr. Adams-Gaston also coordinates the various counseling programs offered.

John Bowman, coordinator of academic counseling, Bea Pray, coordinator of certification services, and John Fritz, coordinator of student services, complete the Academic Support Unit.

Bowman coordinates academic counseling and academic monitoring. He also is in charge of verifying each students' satisfactory progress toward a degree. His extensive experience in higher education as an academic advisor on the College Park campus provides student-athletes with an excellent counseling resource.

Pray handles a variety of responsibilities relating to student services and certification, student-athlete housing, financial aid and academic counseling. She also coordinates the ever-increasing flow of certification paperwork to verify student-athletes' eligibility. Pray also supervises the distribution of special recognition awards, which each year are presented to student-athletes for outstanding achievement in the classroom.

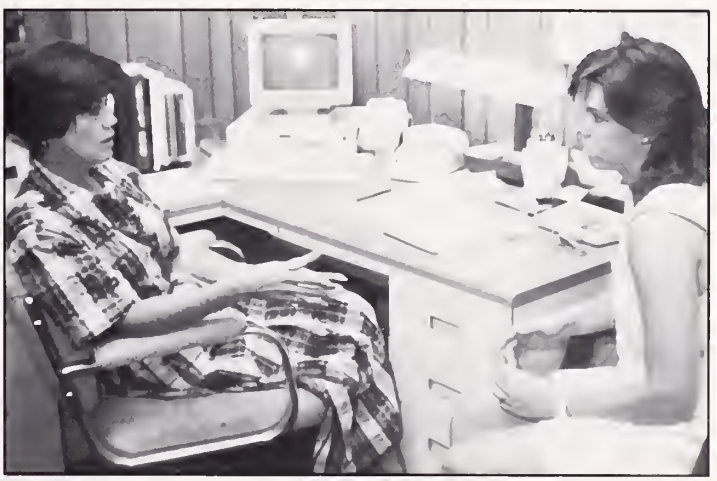
Tutors, supervised study sessions and the athletic bookroom are coordinated by Fritz. In the past year, the athletics department has increased the number of tutors available to student-athletes to more than 100, four times last year's level.

Together the fivesome which comprises the Academic Support Unit provides each student-athlete with experienced assistance throughout their University of Maryland career ... and beyond.

Dr. Gerald Gurney: academic counseling at Maryland is personal.

John Bowman: specialists fill administrative roles designed to make sure academic and athletic goals are realized.

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston: academic counseling offers more than just a nuts and bolts thrust.



Bea Pray: experienced professionals abound in academic counseling.

Terp Strength and Conditioning

Preparing an athlete to play a particular sport is the mission of the Strength and Conditioning program at Maryland. Proper training leads to more confidence on the athlete's part, and translates into a competitive, aggressive Terrapin.

Strength and Conditioning is directed by Frank Costello, an extraordinary competitor and coach. As a Terrapin undergraduate, he was the third ranked high jumper in the world, NCAA Champion and four-time All-America. As coach he led Maryland to both the IC4A Indoor and Outdoor team titles and was NCAA District Coach of the Year. Maryland's Strength and Conditioning Coordinator since 1981, Costello adds a unique dimension in not only prescribing conditioning regimens, but also in helping to coach the whole athlete.

Costello, and assistants Dave Pacella and Steve Wetzel, begin the road to physically preparing an athlete to play their sport by conferring with that sport's coach, and then testing and evaluating the individual. Weight training, speed training, flexibility training—all could be part of a balanced prescription to excel, depending on the sport.

Maryland's commitment to strength and conditioning grows with the explosion of interest among athletes and coaches. Men's and women's sports, team and individual competition—every sport is involved. Two weight rooms now exist, with even more and better facilities part of an overall upgrading planned for the next few years.
